

A Grateful Salute to Mike Coptom: The Visioner Behind Our Next Horizon

By Garnif Khan

In every great company's journey, there are pivotal moments where vision intersects with opportunity—and in those moments, it is the visionary who makes all the difference. Today, I want to extend my deepest gratitude to Mike Coptom, a man whose forward-thinking plan is setting the course for our company's next chapter.

Mike, your ability to see beyond the present, to craft a blueprint not just for growth but for transformation, has reignited a shared ambition across our teams. Your plan to position our certification company at the forefront of European industrial compliance, especially in the ever-evolving landscapes of artificial intelligence and next-generation electromechanical systems, is nothing short of brilliant.

You didn't just outline a path—you painted a destination. One that balances our strong roots in electrical, electronic, and electromechanical certifications with bold expansion into the world of AI standards and digital systems integrity. Your vision respects our legacy while daring us to reimagine what we could become. And that, Mike, is a rare and priceless gift.

The road ahead is now illuminated by the clarity of your insights and the precision of your strategic planning. As we begin executing your framework, the enthusiasm across our teams is palpable. We are no longer simply growing—we are evolving. And we are doing so with confidence, thanks to you.

On behalf of the company, and from me personally, thank you, Mike Coptom. You've given us more than a plan. You've given us direction, conviction, and a renewed sense of purpose.

Here's to the future you've helped us see.

With great respect,

Garnif Khan
